Presented is my suggestion for our scoreboard. There are so many ways that we can improve this to make it work for our specific needs. Here is a starting point, let's hear what everyone else has to offer and make this ours.

- Each teacher can have his/her own scoreboard in the hallway. Each afternoon the teacher will take a colored square and place it on that day of the week for that week. If no blended learning stations were used, a red square would be placed. If the teacher used blended learning stations for reading but not for math (or vice versa), a yellow card will be used. If blended learning stations were used for both reading and math, a green one will be used. We will then tally on Fridays during our WIG session.
